

Hitler and the Nazi Party

Patrick. S, Period.5

- Antisemitism: is prejudice, hostility, or discrimination directed at Jews as individuals or as a group based on their religion, culture, or ethnicity.
- Extreme nationalism: often termed ultranationalism, is an intense, exclusionary, and aggressive form of patriotism that prioritizes one's nation above all others, frequently viewing it as superior.
- Social Darwinism: is the pseudoscientific idea that Charles Darwin's concept of "survival of the fittest" applies to human society, meaning the strong naturally rise to power while the weak fall, justifying inequality, imperialism, and laissez-faire capitalism by claiming it's natural selection.
- Aryan: superiority Aryanism is a racist, pseudoscientific ideology holding that Germanic Nordic peoples belong to a master race Herrenvolk at the top of a human hierarchy.
- Lebensraum: the territory that a state or nation believes is needed for its natural development, especially associated with Nazi Germany.

Hitler's Core Beliefs

- The Treaty of Versailles: In 1919 was the primary treaty ending World War I, signed between the Allied Powers and Germany on June 28, 1919, in France.
- economic depression: is a severe, prolonged downturn in economic activity, characterized by high unemployment.
- unemployment rate: refers to the percentage of people in the labor force who are actively looking for work but cannot find a job. This metric reflects the overall health of an economy.
- Political instability: refers to the likelihood of significant, often abrupt, changes in a country's government, structure, or policies, characterized by civil unrest, weak governance, or violence.

Germany's Crisis

- Beer Hall Putsch (failure): a failed coup d'état by the Nazi Party in Munich, Bavaria, on 8/9 November 1923, during the Weimar Republic.
- Mein Kampf: Mein Kampf, German for "My Struggle", is a 1925 autobiographical, political manifesto written by Nazi leader Adolf Hitler.
- Growth of Nazi Party: The growth of the Nazi Party refers to its transformation from a fringe, anti-Semitic, and nationalist group.
- 1933 appointment as Chancellor: On January 30, 1933, German President Paul von Hindenburg appointed Adolf Hitler as Chancellor, marking the end of the Weimar Republic and the beginning of the Nazi dictatorship.
- Enabling Act: An enabling act is a piece of legislation passed by a government that grants an entity—such as an agency, organization, or executive, the power to take specific actions or manage certain functions that were previously controlled by the legislature.

Gaining Power Legally

- Abolishing other political parties: legal constitutional, or coercive elimination of opposition, resulting in a single-party state or a nonpartisan system.
- Control of Reichstag: Control of the Reichstag refers to the political domination of Germany's parliament, shifting from a democratic legislative body 1871/1933 to a Nazi rubber stamp 1933/1945.
- Role of SS: It was responsible for the Holocaust, running concentration/death camps, policing the state, and foreign intelligence, leading to its designation as a criminal organization.
- Concentration camps (for political enemies at first): Concentration camps, as established by the Nazi regime starting in 1933, were specialized detention sites designed to imprison, terrorize, and eliminate individuals.

Eliminating Opposition

Propaganda (Goebbels): Propaganda as defined and practiced by Joseph Goebbels (1897–1945), the Reich Minister of Public Enlightenment and Propaganda in Nazi Germany.

Radio & film: Radio is the transmission of audio content (voice, music) via electromagnetic waves for public consumption.

Nuremberg rallies: The Nuremberg Rallies (Reichsparteitage) were massive, annual propaganda events staged by the Nazi Party in Nuremberg.

1936 Olympics: The 1936 Summer Olympics (XI Olympiad), held in Berlin, Germany, from August 1–16, were heavily politicized by the Nazi regime as a propaganda showcase to project a, now, false image of a peaceful.

Youth indoctrination: Youth indoctrination is the deliberate, systematic process of instilling specific ideologies, beliefs, or political values into children and young people, often bypassing critical thinking.

Controlling the People

- Who was defined as Jewish: A Jew is traditionally defined by halacha Jewish law as anyone born to a Jewish mother or who has undergone a valid conversion.
- Loss of citizenship: Loss of citizenship, or loss of nationality, is the formal cessation of a person's status as a citizen of a specific country, which can occur voluntarily renunciation or involuntarily denaturalization.
- Marriage bans: Marriage banns are the public, ecclesiastical proclamation of an impending marriage, traditionally read in a Christian parish church on three successive Sundays before the ceremony.
- Required identification: Required identification refers to mandatory, valid documents typically government-issued with a photo, name, and DOB that individuals must present to verify their identity for security, legal, employment, or access purposes.

The Nuremberg Laws (1935)

- What happened: On the night of November 9/10, 1938, the Nazi regime orchestrated a wave of state-sponsored violence against Jewish communities across Germany, annexed Austria, and the Sudetenland. This event is commonly known as Kristallnacht.
- Damage done: The state-sponsored violence of Kristallnacht on November 9–10, 1938, caused catastrophic damage across the German Reich, Austria, and the Sudetenland.
- Arrests: The arrests during Kristallnacht (November 9–10, 1938) marked the first time the Nazi regime incarcerated Jews on a massive scale solely for their identity.
- Aftermath restrictions: Following the Kristallnacht pogrom on November 9–10, 1938, the Nazi regime enacted a wave of severe legal, economic, and social restrictions designed to completely remove Jews from public life and accelerate their emigration from Germany.

Kristallnacht (1938)

Hitler's Rise to Power

- Many ordinary Germans supported or accepted the drastic changes brought by the Nazi regime between 1933 and 1939 due to a combination of economic desperation, the restoration of national pride, effective propaganda, and the fear of a brutal police state.
- Authoritarianism, as exemplified by the Nazi regime (1933–1945), is characterized by the rapid consolidation of power, elimination of opposition, and systematic terror.
- Understanding the systematic nature of the Nazi regime is crucial because it reveals that the Holocaust was not a series of random, chaotic acts of violence, but a deliberate, state-sponsored program.
